

Irish Division National Rally 2012

Ashfield Boys School, Holywood Road Belfast
(Thursday 5th April 2012 to Tuesday 10th April 2012)

This 61st Irish Division National Rally hosted by the Ulster Centre on behalf of the Irish Division is being held in Belfast for the first time. The Ulster Centre committee has put together a programme of entertainment befitting the rally and its location in this, the Titanic Centenary Year.

Our location gives convenient access to the Titanic Quarter, the exhibition at the Ulster Folk and Transport Museum and its TITANICa exhibition as well as Belfast city centre. You can enjoy the rally and all that is on offer and also the newly revived City of Belfast including all that is Titanic.

The rally venue is Ashfield Boys School on the Holywood Road on the east side of the city. Being Northern Ireland's capital Belfast offers everything a major city can. Access routes to and from the rally site are direct and simple giving you the opportunity to get out and about to anywhere in the province. The site has ample hard standing and has an elevated aspect overlooking the city and its harbour and shipyard. We coincide with the Titanic Centenary Commemorations and hope to have some of the activities highlighted for you on arrival.

The Proposed Programme

- There will be an Evening of traditional entertainment of storytelling, music and dance.
- For the younger members, there will be lots of activities both outdoor and indoor that will include sporting events and Easter crafts.
- There will be an evening of caravan based drama featuring the renowned Belvoir Players.
- These are alongside all the usual events that traditionally make up an Irish Division National.
- This is an opportunity not to be missed and one of the best ways to spend Easter in a caravan.

You can be sure of an open hearted welcome when you arrive and we look forward to seeing you there.
